Employment Law Up-Date Service

Keeping abreast of legal developments relating to employment law in Ireland can be a daunting task....

New EU Directives, Acts & Statutory Instruments are regularly announced. Case law extending the rights and duties of employers and those they engage appears to be published with increasing frequency.

Emails sent out as part of this service are written by employment lawyers who between them have many years' experience of advising and representing clients in Ireland. Each email is clearly and concisely written and usually accompanied by links to supplementary material on the world wide web - ideal for the busy person advising on employment issues.

Hundreds of organisations, small and large, now benefit from this service.

> Basic and Premium Service

Choose between our two services:

Basic service – this free service provides subscribers with periodic updates on developments relating to employment law and an entitlement to special reductions on new text books marketed through the service. To subscribe simply complete and return the form with this brochure or enter your details online at the address supplied.

Premium service – in addition to the above premium rate subscribers also receive summaries of new legislation and case law from the EAT, Equality Tribunal and Labour Court, legal reviews of topical issues at work and preference for places at Legal-Island conferences as well as access to a searchable archive of previous emails.

> Special New Feature

Question a top employment law unit

- on the First Tuesday of each month top law firm Matheson Ormsby Prentice will answer questions submitted by Premium Subscribers

Kerry Hiles is a Senior Associate in the Employment Pensions and Benefits Group at Matheson Ormsby Prentice. Kerry advises on all aspects of employment law, both in contentious and non-contentious matters, and has particular expertise in business immigration matters. Kerry has advised a wide range of clients from national and multinational companies to individuals.

About the Contributors

The emails are composed by a number of leading lawyers including :

Jennifer Cashman is a partner in Ronan Daly Jermyn, one of Ireland's leading law firms, and a member of their Employment Law team. She holds a Diploma in Employment Law and has experience in advising the firm's many commercial clients on both contentious and non contentious issues.

David Fagan is the head of O'Donnell Sweeney Evershed's Employment Law Unit. With the worldwide client base that comes from being part of such a large international firm, and over 13 years experience in the employment law area, David has substantial experience of high level advisory and contentious HR matters.

Jennifer O'Neill is an associate solicitor at LK Shields, Solicitors and a member of their Employment, Pensions and Employee Benefits Unit. She works extensively in the area of employment law and advises Irish and international companies on general employment issues.

Boyce Shubotham is a senior partner in William Fry, Solicitors - one of the top five law firms in Ireland - and head of their Employment & Pensions Department. He is a member of the Law Society's Employment Law Committee, the European Employment Lawyers Association and the Association of Irish Labour Lawyers.

Deirdre Mulligan is a solicitor and has worked with McCann FitzGerald's Employment Group since 1998. She advises on a range of areas including dispute resolution, equality, change management and industrial relations. The Employment Group provides advice on all aspects of employment law to clients in the State, semi-State and private sectors.
